Disability and Accessibility Support Services

If you require an accommodation due to a disability, pregnancy/parenting, emergency medical condition or need special arrangements in case of a building evacuation, please contact:

Laura M. Bagdady
Assistant Director
Disability & Accessibility Support Services
Student Success Center, Room 319
McNichols Campus Library

It is very important for students to be proactive with regard to requesting their disability accommodations every semester. While it is never required that you disclose your disability to your professors, all students at Detroit Mercy are encouraged to talk with their professors to discuss their academic needs and concerns. You must be registered with Disability & Accessibility Support Services, and your faculty must receive official notification from their office before they can make arrangements for your accommodations.

Required documents for consideration of an accommodation can be found on the website.
